

Message from the Principal

Among the eight Sapporo City municipal High Schools, Keihoku prides itself as the oldest and the only Vocational High School. Over the past eighty years,

Keiichi Suzuki graduated students have gone on to excel in both the workplace and the community. For a long time our school has focused on Accounting, Information Communication Technology (ICT), Economics, Marketing and English education. In addition, the school is always evolving and creating new education framework, such as 'Education for Sustainable Development' (ESD).

The Japanese Ministry of Education (MEXT) has been implementing a program called 'Super Professional High School' to develop professionals who will contribute to society as a whole. Since 2017, Keihoku has focused on the areas such as Tourism, Entrepreneurship, Local Business, Intercultural Communication and MICE. Keihoku has always foster a relaxed atmosphere between staff and pupils, which we hope you will experience some day.

About Keihoku

Located in Ishiyama, Keihoku is surrounded by beautiful mountains with a rich history of stone masonry. It's a public high school with 6 classes in each grade (about 720 students).

Established in 1941, Keihoku celebrated its 70th anniversary in 2011. About 18,000 students have graduated from Keihoku.

Keihoku means 'to pioneer (kei) north (hoku)', and its school emblem has Mercury, who is the Roman God of Our teachers and career advisors are committed to mentoring the students' preparations for job applications and university entrance examinations. There are many special lessons to prepare for college entrance examinations and various qualification examinations, such as accounting and English.

Many courses are available, such as Accounting, IT, and International Studies. They are seminar-style with fewer students in each class, leading to a more intimate learning experience. Students participate in local product development, volunteer activities and global-centered events.

Students obtain practical experience through internships and prepare for a changing global-centric society. With a qualified school counselor and a peer support group, students are supported during their entire school life.

Through these various programs, students become independent, learn self-motivation, and cooperate with others.
